Price: 850.–

Content

Particularly in the B2B sector, the purchasing decision process of new customers is a time-consuming and dialogue-intensive complex process. The digital channel plays a decisive role in the areas of awareness (attracting attention), interest (arousing interest) and consideration. Existing customers also have potential in after-sales and in customer loyalty with 1:1 personalisation and clever newsletter and Social Media Marketing. Many companies in the B2B sector are classically set up as sales organisations with telephone and trade fair acquisition and neglect the digital possibilities. This in turn offers innovative B2B companies the opportunity to draw attention to themselves.

Where do you effectively address which target group with what purpose and what content? In the course you will gain the most important insights into the online user behaviour of B2B decision-makers and discover trends, theses and success factors in the B2B environment for Online Marketing. You will get to know the context of SEO/SEA for awareness generation as well as E-mail Marketing, Inbound Marketing, Social Media and Content Marketing for interest, consideration and retention. Decision makers are often on the move a lot, so this course explicitly examines the special features of Mobile Marketing for B2B.
